THINGS TO CONSIDER
WHEN SELECTING A DESTINATION
WEDDING
VENUE

Finding the right wedding venue takes a lot of time and research and can often be one of the hardest parts of planning a wedding. You need to make sure that your venue ticks all the right boxes before you make a final decision.

Your venue will influence your budget as well as the atmosphere on the day so before you sign on the dotted line, below are three important things to consider before you decide on your wedding venue.

PICK A VENUE THAT MATCHES YOUR STYLE AND VISION

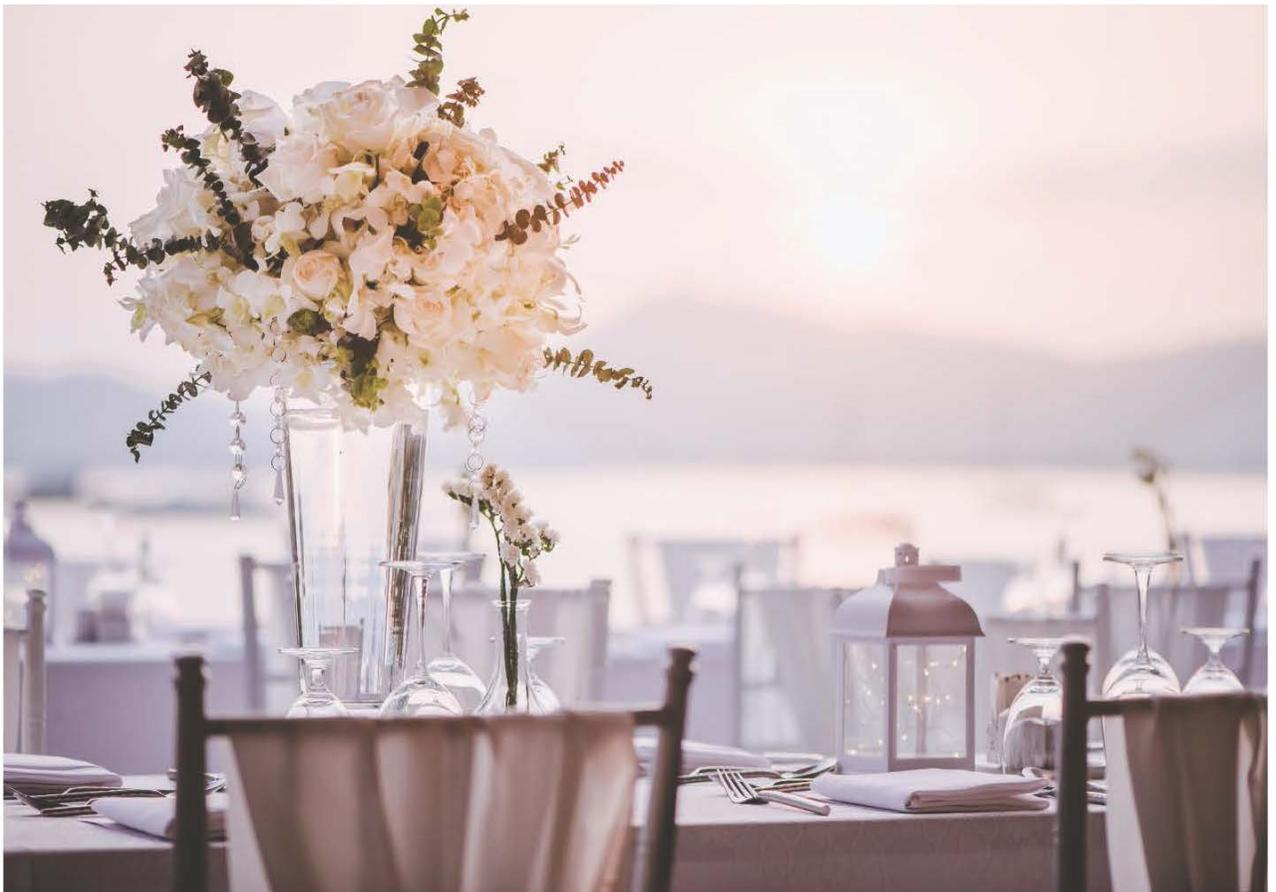

There is so much information in the internet to sort through and choose from. With Elegant Wedding Designs, we partnered only with the best in the industry. We have selections of luxury all-inclusive resort packages at popular destinations that will match your vision.

Do you want a venue that offer each guest the highest level of luxury experience , providing the utmost attention to detail, lavish accommodations with oceanfront ceremony at the beach or beautifully decorated wedding gazebo overlooking a crystal-clear sea with sun setting as you say I do?

Do you want a venue that is adult only and offers extra measure of romance and sensuality?

Maybe you prefer a venue for couples and couples with children or multigenerational, in ideal beachfront settings.or perhaps a venue that is characterized by unequalled holistic and wellness experiences.

Whatever your style or vision maybe, this all sets the scene for your location.

MIND YOUR GUEST LIST AND YOUR BUDGET

Do you know how many guests you are expecting to invite? Knowing the number of guests will save you headaches and money as they go hand in hand.

CONSIDER TRAVEL & DISTANCE

Take into consideration how many are traveling. Are there guests that will be physically challenged due to a long flight? Jet lag is real and your guests are traveling hours to be at the wedding and you want them to have as much fun as you do!

FACTOR SEASON AND WEATHER

Beach Weddings in the Caribbean

Most Caribbean islands have incredible weather all year round, Finding the right venue means finding the right season.

January, February, March (High Season) where It is not too hot; there is always a nice breeze and very little rain.

April, May, June (Mid Season) where it is normally the time when it rains the most in the Caribbean.

July, August, September (Low Season). This is a popular month and rates are not as high and not at capacity HOWEVER, this is the start of hurricane season and humidity during July, August and September is at it's highest.

October, November, December (Mid Peak-Season) is ideal time to host a destination wedding weather wise. Take into consideration that this is close to major holidays and can impact how many guests will come.

Beach Weddings in Mexico

January and February (High Season) are best months for tropical weather and moderate temperature.

March, April and early May.(Mid Season) The weather has not reached the higher temperatures of summer.

October and throughout November (Low Season) Cool and breezy season. Have you heard that the October moon is famous in Mexico?, so if you plan to get married in the evening you will have a large, round moon to cast a brilliant glow over your celebration.

CONSIDERATION FOR YOUR GUESTS EXPERIENCE

When choosing a destination wedding venue, keep your guest' experience and comfort in mind. How many family rooms do you need, or how many single people are potentially sharing a room? Are you having adults only or do you want a family friendly venue or do you have adventure seeking travelers? All these can play a factor in choosing the right venue. There is a growing interest in hassle free all inclusive resorts that caters to total luxury with unique dining, top shelf liquors, loads of activities, great amenities and authentic regional experiences.

STAY TRUE

Your choice of venue should not be based off of the style found online.

Choose what is real and best match your style and vision; a representation of who you are.
